About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

Treasury Agent Enoch Norton Retires From 26-Year Career

ENOCH NORTON has retired. That name might not be familiar to a lot of you but he's been the "revenue" in these parts for a long time.

Yesterday ended a 26-year career as a U. S. Treasury agent in which he has been on the lookout for "moonshine" stills. Although most of his work has dealt with illegal liquor in more recent years it has included firearms laws and tobacco tax enforcement, too.

I was talking with Mr. Norton, whom I've known for several years, yesterday when he came to town for farewells with officers with whom he has worked.

I learned that after World War I, in which he served, he worked as a mechanic until 1927, when he passed a Civil Service examination and became a federal prohibition agent. He was transferred to southern Illinois in 1928 and has been here since, except for a year in Missouri and five in Wisconsin.

A lot of his early work was in Saline, Williamson and Franklin counties and on one Saturday afternoon in 1928, he along with Sheriff Lige Turner of Saline, Oren Coleman of Williamson and James Pritchard of Franklin, and other federal officers, found and destroyed 23 illicit stills.

He recalled that in 1928 he and other federal men used wire-tapping to help convict the late Carl Shelton of the notorious Shelton gang. Shelton was sentenced to a year in jail.

Once Norton told of a trial which resulted from some "Moonshine" arrests in the Cache river bottoms. The judge asked the men why they were in the business of making moonshine and one said "to get meat for our children."

"Why didn't you use that rifle to get meat?" the judge asked.

"That would be against the law," the defendant replied.

Norton, 58, who has lived on a farm near Herrin with his family, plans to move to Lucasville, Ohio.

Grade School Band to Attend Clinic at Marion

The Harrisburg grade school band, 60 in number, directed by W. W. Chunn, will participate in an instructional band clinic being conducted at the Marion Junior high school Thursday and Friday of this week.

Approximately 25 southern Illinois elementary school bands are expected to attend.

The clinic will be climaxed with a concert Friday evening in the Marion grade school gymnasium, starting about 7:30.

There will be clinics for two groups, advanced students and intermediates, and there also will be two concert bands, assuring every pupil of appearing in the Friday evening program. Each band will play four or five numbers, it is said.

Dean Downey of Madisonville, Ky., will be one of the guest conductors. He is one of the leading high school band directors in Kentucky, having directed bands to high honors in national contests.

All Harrisburg band members are to be at the Junior high school ready to leave at 7:45 Thursday morning. The trip will be made by chartered bus. The students should be back in Harrisburg not later than 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Friday the bus will again leave from the Junior high school at 7:45, but due to the evening concert the return trip will not be completed until 9:30 p. m.

The trip is being financed by the Band Parents organization. There is a 50 cent per pupil entry fee, plus transportation costs.

The Band Parents now have two finance raising projects underway—pecan and Christmas light sales. It is hoped the Marion trip can be financed from these two projects.

Decatur Defeats City Manager Gov't

DECATUR, Ill. (UP)—Voters defeated a proposition calling for a city manager type of government by a more than two-to-one margin at the polls Tuesday.

Residents cast 9,646 votes against the city manager form of rule and 4,247 in favor of the measure.

Says Surgeon Gave Her Ring and Watch

Is Climax Witness At Sensational Murder Trial

CLEVELAND (UP)—Susan Hayes, in severe black and white, decried today that she had been sexually intimate with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard from 1952 until three months before his wife was bludgeoned to death last July 4.

As the climax witness in the state's attempt to send the 30-year-old osteopathic surgeon to the electric chair, Miss Hayes testified that he had given her a ring in January this year, a watch in March and had expressed his love for her on several occasions.

She said that once he told her "he loved his wife very much—but not so much as a wife—that he was thinking of getting a divorce."

That was in the early part of 1953, she said, when she was working at a downtown Cleveland laboratory as a medical technician.

Later that year, probably in November, Dr. Sheppard said he had mentioned "something about divorce" to his wife, Marilyn, 31.

The state contends Dr. Sheppard beat his wife to death, probably with a surgical instrument, after quarreling with her about his affairs with Susan and other women.

Susan Looks Lovely

Miss Hayes, 24, could pass for a movie star in any company. A dark-haired woman, she has a small, pretty face.

On the witness stand she sat quietly, licking her lips between questions by Prosecutor Thomas J. Parrino and lowering her eyes during pauses in the testimony.

She wore a simple black dress. Her plainness was broken only by a small, prim white collar. She clasped her hands on her knees as she testified.

She told of intimate relations with Dr. Sheppard in his automobile, in an apartment above his clinic, in a suburban Fairview Park, and during seven days stay in the home of a friend in Los Angeles.

In her entire time on the stand, Miss Hayes never looked at the defendant. He, however, stared at her grimly and frequently took notes on a yellow pad.

On cross-examination by Defense Atty. Fred W. Garmone, she was asked:

"In all this period of your activities as a technician when you knew Dr. Sheppard, you always were aware that he was a married man?"

"Yes," she replied.

The state rested its case with her testimony.

Letters Follow Trip

The Los Angeles rendezvous was last March, Mrs. Sheppard had gone with Dr. Sam to California but had remained with friends on a ranch north of Los Angeles, Mrs.

A. L. Blackwell, 71, Dies at Carrier Mills

A. L. Blackwell, 71, better known to his friends as Al, died Tuesday morning at his home on East Washington street in Carrier Mills.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Blackwell and had spent most of his life in Carrier Mills. He was a retired coal miner by occupation.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the A. M. E. church in Carrier Mills. Rev. Johnson will officiate, and burial will be in the Lake View cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the Miller funeral home until the funeral hour.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Janice Avery, Carrier Mills, Mrs. LaVerne Brooks, Springfield; two brothers, William Blackwell of Marion RFD 2, and Robert Blackwell of Carrier Mills, and the following children: Nita and George Blackwell, both of Los Angeles, Calif., and Delmar Blackwell and Shirley Williams, both of Carrier Mills.

William Lambton Funeral Friday

The body of William Lambton, former resident of Harrisburg who died Saturday afternoon in Phoenix, Ariz., will arrive in Harrisburg Thursday afternoon and after 7 p. m. will lie in state at the Gibbons funeral home where the funeral will be held Friday at 2 p. m.

Rev. W. P. Webb will officiate, and burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery with Masonic rites.

The High School Rate Election:

(An Editorial)

Voters of the area covered by the Harrisburg Township high school will go to the polls Saturday of this week to determine whether the school will be given enough money to operate on the present basis or whether services must be curtailed so the school may operate on a balanced budget.

Under the present rate of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the school is operating "in the red." Permission is asked to increase the rate to 71 cents per $100 assessed valuation if that amount is needed, but school authorities state that less than half the increase is needed at present.

Taxpayers want to know how they will be affected. A taxpayer whose taxes were $100 this year would be taxed $106.40 if the entire increase were put into effect, but on the proposed basis, the total would be $103.40.

Some objectors to the proposal have stated that Harrisburg taxes are higher than in other areas. This might be true as to the over-all taxes paid, which could be determined only by comparing rates in various areas.

However, it is definitely not true as to the Harrisburg high school, since the rate for the school is the lowest of 39 other high schools in southern Illinois.

The question to be determined is whether patrons of this high school district want their children to have opportunities equal to those of other districts, and whether they are willing to pay for this service.

The school is in the hands of the following members of the board: George O. Davenport, Frank P. Parker, Paul T. Endicott, Dr. W. D. Tuttle, Bert Gaskins Jr., Ed. Brantley and Dr. W. J. Blackard Jr. These men serve without pay. They all pay a considerable amount of taxes in Harrisburg. Their taxes will be increased the same as those of other taxpayers. They are recommending that the proposal be approved by voters in order to maintain the proper services of the school.

Woman Demands Air Force Return Meteorite Which Struck Her Home

SYLACAUGA, Ala. (UP)—Mrs. H. L. Hodges, the first known person ever struck by a falling meteorite, demanded today that the Air Force return the one that ripped into her home and injured her.

The meteorite, six or eight inches in diameter, fell through her roof leaving a three-foot hole and struck her on the hip and hand Tuesday afternoon. She was only slightly injured, however, by the object that may have been one of many that fell from a 40-mile high explosion visible in three states.

A helicopter crew from Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., flew to Mrs. Hodges' home to examine the object and the Air Force said it would be taken to Air Force laboratories in Washington.

Sylacauga Mayor Ed J. Howard, apparently unaware of the Air Force's plans, said the nine-pound meteorite would be placed in the state Museum of Natural History at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

But the 32-year-old Mrs. Hodges and her husband said they planned to demand that the Air Force return the stone-like object to them as a souvenir.

She said she was lying on her sofa when she heard the explosion that was plainly visible to persons from Atlanta to Greenville, Miss.

A few seconds later she said, the meteorite came tearing through the roof of her home.

Mrs. Hodges, who was later treated for shock and bruises, said she ran outside after regaining her composure and saw, about a mile up, "a kind of boiling smoke."

Editor James E. Mills of the Scripps-Howard Birmingham Post-Herald said the phenomenon south-east of Birmingham.

"It looked something like a shell burst but gave off white smoke. Then it trailed off in a spiral 1,000 feet below and was visible for about 15 minutes," Mills said.

George Swindle, a field representative of the U. S. Geological Survey, who was in Sylacauga for a water survey, examined the meteorite that hit Mrs. Hodges and said it was of the "sulphide variety."

Defense Atty. Ferdinand Samper rested his case late Tuesday and rebuttal ended shortly before noon.

Judge Saul I. Rabb ordered closing arguments to be made this afternoon.

Deputy Prosecutor John H. Daily planned to ask the death penalty for a pre-meditated crime, and Samper intended to hammer at his contention Dorothy induced Lively to make love to her the night she was slain in his room.

Court attaches expected that final instructions would be given the jury late this afternoon and it would begin deliberations tonight.

At the conclusion of the case, Rabb granted Lively's motion to exclude the tape-recorded confession from the evidence. The confession was one of seven the state contended Lively made here and at St. Louis, Mo., where he was arrested.

Annual Farm Bureau Meeting Dec. 22

The annual meeting of the Saline County Farm Bureau will be held at the Harrisburg city hall on Dec. 22 starting at 12:30 p. m.

Guest speaker will be W. B. Peterson, secretary of marketing of the Illinois Agricultural association.

Entertainment will be furnished by members of local 4-H clubs and the state talent-fund winners, a trio from Hamilton county.

Election of directors from Stonefort, Brushy, Mountain, Long Branch, Carrier Mills and Cottage townships will be held this year.

Draft Extension Proposals to Meet Opposition

Wilson Reveals Combination Draft, Reserve Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration's call for a four-year extension of the draft plus a modified Universal Military Training program will meet strong opposition in Congress. Senate specialists on military affairs said today.

One veteran senator, a supporter of Universal Military Training in the past, said the military manpower proposals will pass only if President Eisenhower throws his "full prestige" behind them. Even then, the President may be forced to accept a compromise cutting the four-year extension of the draft to two years, the senator said. He declined use of his name.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson announced at his news conference late Tuesday that the new combination draft and reserve program will call for:

1. A four-year extension of the draft act which expires next June 30. Under the draft, inductees serve two years of active duty and six years in the reserves although the reserve provision has not been enforced. About 276,000 young men would be drafted each year.

2. A new reserve program under which an additional 100,000 men a year would be given six months of basic training and then placed in organized reserve or National Guard units. Wilson did not specify how many years of reserve service would be required.

3. Continued emphasis on voluntary enlistments to funnel another 450,000 men a year into the armed services.

The plan as Wilson outlined it means universal military service. He said the aim is to let young men, as much as possible, make "a sound choice in what they'd like to do" to meet their military service obligation.

Two Girls Win Top Honors at Live Stock Show

CHICAGO (UP)—Two teenage girls from Iowa reigned today as queens of the International Live Stock Exposition.

The best cattlemen in North America had to take a back seat to Janice Hullinger, 16, of Manly, and Barbara Clausen, 15, of Spencer, who walked off Tuesday with the top prizes of the world's biggest agricultural show.

Janice's 1,000-pound jet black Aberdeen Angus was selected as the grand champion of the show while Barbara's 1,120-pound Short-horn won the runnerup award.

It was the first time in the International's history that two girls ever carried off the grand and reserve championships for steers in open competition.

Juniors Sweep Honors

It was also the first time that the two junior show winners moved on to take the top prizes in open competition.

Janice's prize-winning "Shorty" will go on the auction block Thursday and if his price matches the record $20-per-pound brought by last year's champ, she will return to Iowa $21,600 richer.

But the climax of the show came when Dr. A. D. (Dad) Weber of Kansas State College, the show's chief judge, for the seventh consecutive year, slapped the rump of "Shorty," signifying it was the grand champ.

Tears Amid Crowd's Roar

A crowd of 8,000 spectators—mostly cattlemen—roared with delight. Janice, clad in a plaid shirt and blue jeans, burst into tears.

"I never thought it could happen," Janice said.

Two Drown in Crab Orchard Lake

CARTERSVILLE (UP)—Two unidentified men drowned in Crab Orchard lake south of here about noon today, authorities said.

Williamson county officers and the Herrin fire department rescue squad began a search about a mile from the Crab Orchard Boat club for the men who were believed to be duck hunters.

Two other unidentified men saw the drowning victims in the water but were unable to reach the area in time to rescue them.

DULLES GIVES AUTOGRAPHS—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in Chicago to address the National 4-H Club Congress dinner, gives autographs to 4-H'ers Johnnie Ruth Bullard, Gadsden, Ala. (left); Marilyn Estes, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Ruth McCracken, Lehigh, Mont. (right). The Secretary, in his speech, said that the U. S. should exhaust all peaceful means to protect the rights of our citizens. Dulles rejected the proposal that U. S. blockade Red China in the attempt to free 13 jailed Americans from Red hands. ### Senate Prepares to Vote on Censure Resolution, Amendments

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) confirmed today that Senate investigators in 1952 checked the return addresses of mail received by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy in an effort to learn whether McCarthy was speculating with funds he collected for fighting communism.

Hayden's statement—supporting a McCarthy charge—highlighted debate as the Senate prepared to begin voting late today on various proposals to strengthen or modify a censure resolution rebuking the Wisconsin Republican.

A top leader of McCarthy's forces said they could count only 33 votes in their camp, and were resigned to defeat on the final test expected Thursday.

The substitute resolution on which the McCarthy forces hoped to muster their peak voting strength was introduced early this afternoon by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.). The long-promised substitute would have the Senate "deplore" the use of "abusive or intemperate language" by any member, but would hold that such language "does not in the light of precedent warrant formal censure or condemnation."

Dirksen's resolution, which mentioned McCarthy only once by name, also said that a "reasonable doubt" exists whether the Senate has legal authority to rebuke a senator now for "language or conduct in a prior session of Congress."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) offered a new "compromise" that would censure McCarthy and urge him to admit his "mistakes" but at the same time would commend him for his Communist hunting and extend the Senate's wishes for a speedy recovery from his elbow injury.

Dirksen's message on disarmament plans proposed by the free world was translated for broadcasting purposes into Russian, Armenian, Georgian, and Ukrainian. The spokesman said that people speaking languages other than Russian and living in their own provinces would have been "insulted" if they had been referred to as Russians.

"What he said was very much in line with our foreign policy of real disarmament, peace, understanding and friendship with all peoples," the spokesman added. "Nothing he said is in conflict with the foreign policy of the United States or other Voice of America broadcasts."

Fred I. Mills, Former Grand Master of Illinois Masons, Dies

Fred I. Mills, 75, Grand master of the Illinois Masonic Grand Lodge in 1948 and resident of Robinson, died yesterday in Terre Haute, Ind.

The Mills family was well known here and his son, the late Clarence Mills, at one time lived in Harrisburg and was married to the former Dorrice Dowell.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in Robinson.

Sen. Flanders Speech in Line With U. S. Policy

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Ralph E. Flanders' Thanksgiving Day message to Russia over the Voice of America was strictly in line with administration policy, the United States Information Agency said today.

A spokesman added that the agency itself asked Flanders to switch his choice of words and address his statement to the "Soviet people" rather than the "Russian people." The purpose, he said, was to avoid offending minority groups in Russia.

Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) kicked up a furor in the Senate Tuesday when he shouted at Flanders, demanding to know what he meant "when he appealed to the Communist tyrants—as my friends, my Soviet brothers." He accused the Vermont Republican of "contorted, twisted thinking" and of helping spread "peaceful co-existence propaganda."

The USA spokesman said the agency had asked Flanders to make a Thanksgiving Day broadcast to Russia after he had made several speeches on the need to get across to the Soviets "that we stand for peace." The message was recorded at Flanders' home in Springfield, Vt.

"He originally referred to the 'Russian people' and we suggested that this be changed to 'Soviet people' in accordance with administration policy," the spokesman said.

Flanders' message on disarmament plans proposed by the free world was translated for broadcasting purposes into Russian, Armenian, Georgian, and Ukrainian. The spokesman said that people speaking languages other than Russian and living in their own provinces would have been "insulted" if they had been referred to as Russians.

"What he said was very much in line with our foreign policy of real disarmament, peace, understanding and friendship with all peoples," the spokesman added. "Nothing he said is in conflict with the foreign policy of the United States or other Voice of America broadcasts."

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UP)—A government witness testified today Evan R. Dale, southern Illinois AFL boss, boasted he had gotten "rid of a shovel and got myself a blackjack" when he entered the labor movement.

The witness was Fred Daugherty, president of Daugherty Co., Inc., a Youngstown, Ohio, piping firm which held a five million dollar subcontract on the 160 million dollar Joppa, Ill., electrical installation.

Daugherty, under questioning of government attorneys, said Dale told of his past at a meeting at the Embassy Club in Cairo, Ill., about Aug. 12, 1951. The meeting had been arranged through James Bateman, AFL pipefitters official, in an effort to settle a jurisdictional dispute between Dale and Bateman's unions.

Two officials of the prime contractor, Ebasco Services, Inc., were present, Daugherty related. Dale hints connections.

He said he recalled Dale telling the Ebasco officials just before the meeting broke up that "if Ebasco wanted to settle the dispute he would tell them" who to see in Springfield.

This point of Daugherty's testimony was not pursued by government attorneys but it was the first indication in the trial of Dale's connections in the state capital.

Dale and Bateman are on trial on a three-count indictment charging them with violation of the federal anti-racketeering law. One count charges them with trying to extort $1,030,000 from Ebasco during construction of the Joppa plant which supplies power to the Atomic Energy Commission Ebasco diffusion plant at Paducah, Ky.

The defense raised the possibility of political implications when it subpoenaed Gov. William Stratton, Illinois Atty. Gen. Latham Castle and State Sen. George E. Drach (R-Springfield) as material witnesses. Drach is counsel for the Associated General Contractors of Illinois.

"Do As Romans Do"

Daugherty said Dale told the Ebasco officials that when "in Rome you do as the Romans do."

He is survived by his wife, Retta, and one son, Alton, Jr., and seven daughters, Mrs. Neil Niles, Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Stella Adwood, Peoria, Mrs. Alma Hoffstetter, Sullivan, Mo., Mrs. Lora Shelby Eicron, Mrs. Alta Chamberlain, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. Lela Volle, all of Golconda.

Under cross-examination, Daugherty said neither Dale nor Bateman had asked him personally for money or threatened him.

Claims $7,500 Paid

Thomas A. Scott Jr., engineer for the Maxon Construction Co., testified Tuesday he paid $7,500 to Dale for labor peace.

Scott said the Maxon firm was doing $750,000 worth of the project and Dale demanded 1 per cent of the contract value "to insure labor peace."

Former Pope County Sheriff Dies

Alonso Walker Sr., 76, Golconda resident who served two terms as sheriff of Pope county, died suddenly at his home in Golconda yesterday at 9 p. m. He was also deputy treasurer and county treasurer.

The body will lie in state at the Rottman funeral chapel and funeral plans await the arrival of relatives from a distance.

He is survived by his wife, Retta, and one son, Alton, Jr., and seven daughters, Mrs. Neil Niles, Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Stella Adwood, Peoria, Mrs. Alma Hoffstetter, Sullivan, Mo., Mrs. Lora Shelby Eicron, Mrs. Alta Chamberlain, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. Lela Volle, all of Golconda.

Vanguard of New Congress Arriving in Capital; Aides Seek Housing for Their Boss

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Congress isn't here yet, but the vanguard is.

Administrative assistants, clerks, and some of the stenographers. All are looking for a place to land. They have their own housing problems, but the biggest job is to anchor the boss—the man who has been elected.

Lyle O. Snader, clerk of the House, has many of the answers for freshmen congressmen. He has put them in a little booklet that can save a lot of trouble.

The pamphlet informs the newcomers that their yearly stipend is $12,500, plus $2,500 expenses per annum.

And then Snader lets out that each lawmaker in the House is allowed 20 cents a mile each way from his home to the steps of the Capitol for each session of Congress.

But what is worrying the new members is the assignment of suites in the two House office buildings plus finding private lodging in this crowded city. The former adds up to a gamble for the neophytes.

In order to get the best view and the nicest red leather chairs and the fanciest mahogany, a congressman must have seniority. The longer the whiskers, the better the view and the finer the drapes and furniture.

If a new member comes upon a nice empty suite and decides to do his own moving, he will find his goods in the hall the next morning.

unless he has been cleared.

Draw by Lot
Between the hours of 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. Dec. 6 the new members or their representatives draw numbers from the hat to determine the order of their choice of what's left after the old-timers have had their pick.

Once a new member legally and properly is settled in his quarters, he finds that he has certain privileges.

He may hire as many clerks and stenographers as he wants, so long as the total payroll doesn't add up to more than $15,000 a year.

He gets special delivery and postal stamps totaling $200 a year, and $1,200 for stationery—but they can't dig into the paper stock until after Jan. 3, 1955.

A pocket size directory will be furnished each member, containing pictures of himself and other members. So until he learns his way around he can whip out his little book and tell at a glance one member from another.

New Cafeteria at Junior High is Given First Use

The new cafeteria at the Harrisburg Junior high school was given a "trial run" Tuesday, when dinner was served to members of the school board, their wives, Junior high teachers and officials.

The first use of the cafeteria Tuesday was to acquaint Mrs. Alma Hite, manager, and Mrs. Lou Hite, with the operation of the equipment.

Lunch was served the Junior high students the first time today. The new Junior high addition is gradually being occupied, although some work remains to be done, even in the rooms which are now being used.

The art room, band room, little theatre, nurse's quarters, manual arts shop, domestic science room and cafeteria are now in practically full use. The rollaway bleachers in the gymnasium are now installed and two basketball goals have been erected.

The room for exceptional mentally handicapped children, the library, the gymnasium locker rooms and showers and the coach's office are still not completely furnished.

The building has been occupied gradually to permit the students to become accustomed to the new arrangement in an orderly fashion. It will be sometime after the first of the year before all rooms are equipped and fully utilized.

Knights Templar Inspection Ceremonies Here

Annual inspection ceremonies for Harrisburg Commandery No. 89, Knights Templar, are being conducted this afternoon and evening under the direction of Sir Knight Elmore Fisher Whitman at the Masonic temple.

Sir Knight Whitman is the Eminent Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of the State of Illinois.

The Order of the Temple degree was conferred on a candidate during the afternoon. This evening at 6 o'clock visiting dignitaries and Sir Knights from other commanderies, local Sir Knights and their ladies dine together.

An open inspection is planned again this year and will commence at 7:30 this evening. Following the inspection, a musical talent program will be given.

Officers of Harrisburg Commandery No. 89 are: C. Lendall Rockwell, Raleigh, eminent commander; Hal B. Mountain, Benton, generalissimo; Robert W. Kennedy Jr., West Frankfort, captain general; Thomas E. Cannan Jr., Eldorado, senior warden; Robert W. Kennedy III, West Frankfort, junior warden; Thomas D. Gregg, EPC, Harrisburg, prelate; Edward L. Heister, EPC, Harrisburg, treasurer; Jesse A. Chastain, EPC, Eldorado, recorder.

Also, Finnis Williams, standard bearer; Robert F. Cook, sword bearer; Earl Robb, warden; Marion Ozment, color bearer; and Lewis L. Jones, sentinel.

Constantly Cool
Temperature of the Carlsbad Caverns remains constant at 56 degrees Fahrenheit the year round, although surface temperatures range from nearly zero to 100 degrees.

Susan Hayes Tells of Intimacies With Sheppard

Sheppard became pregnant during that California visit.

Miss Hayes said that when the Sheppards returned to Bay Village, a suburb of Cleveland, after that trip, Dr. Sam began writing her letters.

"I got about four letters from him," she said.

Parrino asked if she had written
Dr. Sheppard.

"I sent him the same number,"
she replied. "Dr. Sheppard wrote to me first."

"Were there professions of love in his letters?" Parrino asked.

Speaks Low of Love

"Yes, sir," she replied, her voice
so low it could barely be heard in the loud speaker system of common pleas court.

Parrino entered in evidence the watch and the ring as state exhibits 85 and 86.

Miss Hayes said she got the ring in January of this year, "in my home." Dr. Sam was alone with her at the time, she testified.

The ring is gold, with a flat face on which are engraved the initials
"S. H."

"What is the fact about whether he expressed his love for you at that time?" Parrino asked.

"He did," Parrino replied.

She also testified that Dr. Sheppard, during the seven days he shared a bedroom with her in Los Angeles, went with her to an automobile dealer and traded his Mercury for a Lincoln.

"In other words, you and he went in with a Mercury and came out with a Lincoln, is that correct?" Parrino asked.

"Yes," she replied.

Miss Hayes said she went on emergency calls with Dr. Sheppard when she first went to work as a technician at Bay View hospital in Bay Village in March of 1949.

Dr. Sheppard appeared unruffled
when she entered the courtroom, clasping his hands chest-high in front of him, resting his elbows on the arms of his chair at the defense table.

She sat less than 25 feet from him.

Sees Sam Angry

Another witness, Thomas Weigle testified he saw Dr. Sam fly into a rage while the osteopath and his son were watching a cowboy and Indian television movie. Weigle said Sheppard beat his son, Sam
Jr., now 7, for some two minutes
because the boy playfully tapped
his father on the arm.

Weigle said he was slain Marilyn Sheppard's first cousin. The episode he described took place on a Sunday late in March, 1952.

The boy slept through his mother's murder although his bedroom adjoins hers and his bedroom door was open.

Weigle's testimony followed that of Worth E. Munn, a manufacturing executive who told how Dr.
Sam immediately after the murder had said he thought there were two intruders in the house when his wife was killed.

Dr. Sheppard in subsequent stories said that he grappled with a big, bushy-haired man.

Senate Prepares to Vote on Censure

member of the subcommittee after Gillette left it in 1952, told the Senate that it was true that a staff investigator once kept a record of the return addresses on letters received by McCarthy through the Senate post office.

Hayden said such a check is a "frequent practice" in criminal cases, and that the subcommittee at the time was investigating a "very serious charge" against McCarthy — namely, that he had "taken money contributed to fight communism and diverted it to his own use . . . and speculated on the stock market."

He said the check gave the subcommittee the names of brokers with whom McCarthy was dealing but "I don't know whether Mc-Carthy committed a crime."

Senator Jenner Protests

The subcommittee's 1952 report raised several questions about Mc-Carthy's finances and tax returns, but did not reach any hard conclusions.

Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.)
protested that mail checks are
"ordinarily used to catch murderers and criminals" and questioned whether such a check had ever been used against a senator before.

"Maybe the senator ought to have been caught," Hayden replied.

As debate went on, a group of McCarthy's supporters arrived from New York in an armored car to present to Senate President Pro Tem Styles H. Bridges a "sample million" of the claimed 10 million signatures they have collected on petitions opposing censure. The "sample" was brought here by Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin, who heads an organization called
"Ten Million Americans Mobilizing for Justice."

Woman Threatens to Jump from Hotel Ledge; Ties Up Traffic

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A woman who identified herself as Mrs. James Marcus, 38, Milwaukee, Wis., blocked rush-hour traffic here late Tuesday when she threatened to jump

from the 10th floor of a mid-town hotel.

Police re-routed traffic around the Claridge Hotel as hundreds of passersby gathered in the street to watch the woman's rescue.

She alternately sat on the window ledge outside her locked room and talked with officers through the door for 90 minutes before police persuaded her to talk with a Catholic priest over the telephone.

When she began the phone conversation, firemen broke through the door and grabbed her before she could return to the window.

She was taken to city hospital for observation.

Question Carmi

Man About Holdup

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Police today questioned John R. Courtney, 28, Carmi, Ill., about last Friday's $6,023 holdup of a Calvert City, Ky., bank.

Courtney was arrested Tuesday, a day after Henry Moore, 26, was arrested in Henderson, Ky., for questioning in the same holdup. Moore was driving an auto belong- ing to Courtney.

Two city police detectives and two FBI agents caught Courtney in a home in an Evansville sub- division. He had $200 to $300 in $20 bills on his person, officers said.

Thompsonville Defeats Valier

Thompsonville's Tigers, defending Little Egyptian conference champs, won their second league game of the season last night at Valier, defeating the host cagers, 70-51. The Tigers now have a 2-3 conference record.

The Tigers took a 16-11 quarter lead and held a 25-23 edge at half-time. Valier slipped in front early in the third period as they attempted a press. Coach Bob Munday's cagers recovered quickly, however, and went on to pile up 26 points in the third frame. They led 51-33 going into the fourth.

Tom Hodgson sparked the winners, collecting 16 of his 18 point total in the final half. Dave Simpson made 18 of his 24 points for the losers in the last half.

TIVILLE — Lemmon 10, Doss 13, Carlie 10, Hodgson 18, Gregory 9, Snyder 3, Marsh 7. VALIER — Simpson 24, Farmer 9, Hardell 4, Joyner 7, O'Brien 7.

SAN FRANCISCO — Carrol, Hardy and Frank Bernardi, University of Colorado halfbacks, have been named to the West squad along with Benny Sinclair, Texas A&M end, for the Jan. 1 East-West Shrine football game.

Looking AT Sports

By ED KIRKPATRICK

One of the first—if not the earliest—cage tournament of the 1954-55 hardwood season gets underway at Equality next Monday evening. The Equality Invitational, an annual affair, will be staged this year in the new gymnasium, and several of the area's top-notch smaller schools will vie for the honors. Royalton, winner of the event last year, will return to defend its title. The other six schools entered, along with the host team and Royalton, are Shawneetown, Ridgway, Crab Orchard, Mills Prairie, Joppa and Enfield.

Drawing for the event has already been held and Shawneetown, unbeaten in seven straight, will meet Joppa in the opener Monday evening. Host Equality will tangle with a veteran Crab Orchard quintet in the second game that night. Tuesday evening, Ridgway takes on Mills Prairie and Enfield plays Royalton. Winners of the Monday night games will play the first contest Wednesday night, with Tuesday's winners meeting in the second round. A consolation, as well as a championship game, will be played Thursday night, winding up the affair. Shawneetown will reign as a slight favorite although Crab Orchard and Royalton are both considered powerful.

Another tournament in December, prior to the holidays, is the Karnak meet. This tourney opens on Tuesday, Dec. 14. Pope Co. and Vienna of the Greater Egyptian conference will participate. Others in the eight-team affair are Dongola, Mounds, Karnak, Cobden, Brookport and Mound City.

And while on the subject of tournaments we might mention that the Greater Egyptian conference tourney is slated to be held at Pope County high's gym, January 18-21. Drawing for the event will be held early in January at Cave-in-Rock. Incidentally, at that meeting held in Rosiclare last month, J. R. Martin, principal of Rosiclare, was re-elected president, and William Riggs, Cave-in-Rock, was named secretary-treasurer. The annual conference Play Day was set for April 15 at Rosiclare.

Lowell Oxford's Cave-in-Rock club, which has already indicated it will not be pushed around this season, should really go next year. At least, Oxford sees it that way now. He has only two seniors on his first twelve, and three of his juniors tower six feet or better. The Rivermen won three in a row and then lost to Vienna and Shawneetown. The Shawneetown defeat was by a mere point, however.

We have also received word that McKendree college's Bearcats will play William Jewell college Tuesday night, Dec. 21, on the Cave-in-Rock floor. McKendree will be led by Dale Cruise, former Cave cage star. Cruise was captain of the McKendree team last year which won 18, lost 9.

Looking backward into the football season just closed, it can be noted for the records that Larry Kane, former Carmi back who has continued his gridiron feats this year with Millikin college, finished the season as the top passer in the College Conference of Illinois. Millikin tied with Wheaton for the conference championship and picked up the rushing, passing and total offense honors. Kane is a nephew of Mrs. Catherine Se-right and cousin of Eddie and Joan.

JUST DRIBBLING — Goraville's team believes "55" is a magic number. The club won three early season encounters and posted 55 points in each. Victims were Royalton, Joppa and Crab Orchard. Ridgway lost a good player when Phil Holland moved into the Pope Co. area a year ago last summer. Holland, who played regular with the Eagles his sophomore year, is now 6-1½ and weighs 160 pounds. He scored 212 points in 24 games last year for the Pirates and is off to an even better season this year. Inaugurated for the first time this year at Indiana university and being played there this week is a varsity-freshman tussle. Two starters on the freshman quintet are well-known in Illinois circles: Archie Dees, Mt. Carmel, and Paxton Lumpkin, DuSable. Ridgway high will not hold its holiday invitational basketball tournament this year.

CHUCK HUNSINGER is back in these parts after a very successful season in Canadian football.

Chuck has been playing football a long time, at HTHS where he was an all-stater, in the service where he played with big pro and college names, at the University of Florida where he won honors, with the Chicago Bears for three years and with the Montreal Alouettes.

He just finished his second season with the Alouettes and had a fine year. He was first string halfback on offense, scoring 11 touchdowns, and playing most of the time on defense. His team was nosed out, 26 to 25, for the pro football championship of Canada last Saturday.

He and his wife, daughter and son have come back to their farm home, which is on the new Mitchellville-to-Dixon Springs highway not too far from Route 34.

Chuck has received an invitation to return to the Alouettes next year and since he has just had such a good season, he probably will do so. Contract time is the first of April.

I asked Chuck if it wasn't a little bit harder to get up after getting hit, if it weren't a little bit harder to bounce back, now that he is 29 years old and with so many years of football under his belt.

The reply was no, that he still got the same kick out of playing, that he didn't get any injuries during the past campaign and enjoyed himself very much.

Mary Garden, famous opera star, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland.

Pope County Pirates Beat Galatia, 64-50

Pope County's Pirates won their third Greater Egyptian conference tussle in five starts last night, as they pulled away from the Galatia Bearcats in the closing minutes for a 64-50 decision.

The veteran Pirates dealt their telling blows in the final period as Galatia attempted to apply a press. The game was nip-and-tuck throughout the early periods.

Behind the sharp-shooting of Jim Roper, Coach Gene Dick's Pirates took a 12-7 lead at the quarter, but Galatia narrowed the gap to a mere point, 26-25, at halftime. The host quintet outscored the Bearcats 21-18 in the third canto, and led 47-43 entering the final quarter.

Roper's 24-point performance was tops for the evening.

Galatia's chances were sorely hampered by the absence of John Tate, regular six foot forward, who was sidelined with an ankle injury.

It was Galatia's second loss in three games.

Auburn, Baylor to Play in Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Auburn and Baylor will match two of the best "pitching and catching" combinations in the nation when they meet in the 10th annual Gator Bowl here Dec. 31.

Gator Bowl President Sam Butz announced Tuesday that the two teams had been chosen after three days of meetings by the bowl's Selection Committee.

IRISH CONCENTRATE ON PASS DEFENSE — SOUTH BEND, Ind. — The Notre Dame football squad, which meets Southern Methodist's Mustangs on Saturday, held a lengthy drill Tuesday, concentrating on defense against an expected aerial assault. Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi and halfbacks Joe Heap and Jim Morse worked as the deep secondary in the pass defense drills.

Omaha Seeks to Jump to Class AAA League at Minor League Convention

HOUSTON, Tex. — Franchise problems were the big news around the minor league convention side rooms today although the convention proper centered its attention of the final day of the draft involving the little minors.

Focal point of the franchise switch talk was Omaha, the ambitious Nebraska metropolis that is waging a prolonged battle to jump from the Class A Western League to the Class AAA American Association.

But there were several other cities whose situations were just as clouded if not as well publicized. Omaha lost out to Denver, Colo., also of the Western League, in the bid for the association franchise vacated when Kansas City moved into the American League, but still hopes that the St. Louis Cardinals will come to the rescue.

Chances appeared good that Omaha would eventually get its wish, but whether success will be written to the campaign before the convention closes Friday remained a moot question with the answer tied up in a multitude of problems.

Even American Association President Ed Doherty, who heretofore had shied away from any remarks that might have been interpreted as favorable to Omaha, said

Shawneetown Posts Seventh Straight Victory; Equality Loses at Joppa

Shawneetown's Indians survived another rough and tumble scrap on the Galatia county school's floor to post their seventh straight victory. The final score was Shawneetown 74, Vienna 56.

At Joppa, "Kayo" Willis' Equality cagers lost a 50-48 decision to the host Rangers who would not be denied victory in their new gymnasium.

The undefeated Indians trailed invading Vienna 17-16 at the quarter post but overhauled their opponents in the second period to assume a 34-29 edge at the intermission. The Eagles clung to Shawneetown throughout the third and were down only five points, 46-41, entering the last session.

Barney Genisio's veteran team broke loose in the final eight minutes, however, to trample the Eagles. Jack Nolen collected 22 points to lead all scorers.

Despite an 18-point first half performance by Joppa's pivot man, "Stretch" Mathis, Equality led the host aggregation. The Cards held a 14-11 quarter margin and a 27-25 halftime edge.

The invaders faded in the third and were behind 44-39 as the final quarter commenced. At one time early in the fourth, the Cards trailed by nine points. A late rally erased most of this deficit but in the closing seconds Equality failed to come through with a knock-out punch.

The Cards lost two via personals. Shawneetown—Gonzel 12, Newsum 16, Spottsville 13, Nolen 22, Joyner 9, Drone 6, Ellis 2. Vienna—D. Hacker 2, Cato 6, Webb 10, Settemio 15, Walters 13, Penrod 8, Felker 2.

Equality—Wooley 12, Porter 4, Kaufmann 12, Milligan 4, M. Glover 3, Joyner 13, Joppa—King 9, Stewart 5, Mathis 23, Johnson 5, Blank 6, Prim 2.

Ameche Wins Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK — Fullback Alan Ameche of the University of Wisconsin, who set an all-time college record by gaining 3,212 yards in four varsity seasons, today was named the winner of the Heisman Memorial Trophy as the year's outstanding college football player.

Ameche, 21-year-old native of Kenosha, Wis., and father of two children, will receive the award at the Trophy Committee's annual dinner here on Dec. 9.

The line-smashing Wisconsin star, who was named to the United Press All-America football team last week, received a total of 1,068 points in balloting by 1,318 sports writers and broadcasters for the trophy.

Trailing Ameche in the trophy voting were three other All-Americans—center Kurt Burris of Oklahoma with 838 points, halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy of Ohio State with 810, and quarterback Ralph Guglielmi of Notre Dame with 691.

Carrier Mills Grade Five Meets Muddy in Midget Tilt Thursday

The Carrier Mills grade school basketball team will resume Midget conference competition Thursday, visiting Muddy.

Last week the Carrier Mills team went outside the conference and dropped a 26-23 decision at Rosiclare. Carrier Mills trailed at the quarter 8-6, then led 16-10 at half-time and 18-17 at the three quarter mark.

After Thursday's game at Muddy, Carrier Mills will travel to Cartersville next Monday.

It's Still Bologna

CHICAGO (AP) — The routine meal at the Detective Bureau lockup formerly was a slab of bologna between two slices of bread.

Now the prisoners have a choice. They are offered menus listing "open-faced bologna sandwich," "fried bologna sandwich," "bologna with mayonnaise," "bologna with mustard," and "plate of sliced bologna."

Methodist Myrtle Combe Class Holds Dinner Party

The Myrtle Combe Sunday school class of the First Methodist church met recently at the home of Mrs. Capitola Melton for a dinner party in honor of the birthday of Miss Maggie Gable.

A lovely cake baked by Mrs. Lorene Cozart centered the table.

For entertainment Mrs. Melton gave each a miniature blown glass goose labeled with a number and then read a list of fortunes which corresponded with the numbers.

Others present besides those mentioned were the teacher, Mrs. C. E. Combe, Miss Mary Richardson, Mrs. Ada Reese, Mrs. Bert

Rude, Mrs. Harry Woolcott Sr., Miss Sally Guard, Mrs. Bertha Hamilton, Mrs. William Wendling, Mrs. Claude L. Rew, Mrs. L. Cora Lavender and a guest, Miss Iris Craggs.

Mrs. Nellie Cline had visiting her over the Thanksgiving holidays her uncle, Jack Webber, and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Craggs, and their daughter, Miss Alice Mae Craggs, all of Reelsville, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Craggs also visited with his relatives in Harrisburg.

Mrs. Clarence Vineyard and daughter, Miss Dorothy Vineyard, 1423 South McKinley, have returned from a vacation in Seattle, Wash., where they visited Mrs. Vineyard's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vineyard, who have a new baby boy named Mark Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vineyard also have a daughter, Sandra.

Mrs. Frank Wallace of Carrier Mills RFD 1 has returned home after spending the past week in Alton visiting with her mother, Mrs. Alice Elliott, who is seriously ill. She also visited with her daughter, Mrs. Zane Porter, and family.

Announce Marriage of Louise Bradley, Wm. E. Wiley
Announcement is being made of the marriage of Louise Bradley and William E. Wiley, both of Harrisburg.

The ceremony was performed yesterday at 8 p. m. by the Rev. W. E. Harper at his home, 721 South Land, before a group of 14. A reception was held afterwards at the Harper home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Price, 927 West Barnett, had as Thanksgiving holiday guests their children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harrison and daughter, Niki Gay, of Peoria, Mrs. Mary Derrick and son, Jeffery, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yates of Eldorado.

Mrs. Mable Rawlings and son, Set Lowell E. Kent, have returned home after spending a three weeks' vacation in Rome and Utica, New York, with Mrs. Rawlings' sister and three brothers on Thanksgiving. They enjoyed a family reunion held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold Gray, in Utica. On their return trip they spent Saturday in Chicago with her niece, Mrs. Josephine Johnson.

Claude Fowler Jr. and his wife, the former Miss Vera Lea Harrison, have returned to their home in Carlsbad, N. M., after spending a two weeks' vacation with their mothers, Mrs. Lessie Fowler and Mrs. Winnie Harrison, and other relatives and friends.

Shot to Death in Empty Theatre

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young man was shot to death today on the stage of an empty burlesque theater in a gunfight with police who tried to arrest him as he caressed pictures of a dancer he called "my red-headed angel." Police said the dead man, Roger Wing Whittier, 26, North Bend, Ore., apparently was crazed with love for the dancer who was identified as Loretta Miller.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS:

Hog Killing Time

By John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

Many earlier arts such as carding, spinning, weaving and the coloring of cloth with native dyes, disappeared so naturally and gradually that few noted their passing. Rail fences, taking many years to do so, have just about completed the process. Another common earlier practice, that of hog killing, has become far less common.

Home butchering was an almost ritualistic process for which careful and somewhat elaborate preparations were made. First, the farm sled was pulled into place for use as a low platform. "And that reminds us, what has become of farm sleds?" A wooden scalding barrel, leaning at the proper angle was set against the side of the sled. The lower end of this barrel was placed in a shallow pit and the top was choked or scotched to prevent its slipping or rolling.

Iron kettles, often holding as much as thirty gallons, were placed on rocks or suspended at the proper height from a strong pole supported by forked posts set in the ground. Plenty of dry fuel, generally broken fence rails, was gathered. If the set-up being made was not close to a well or pond, some barrels of water stood by. Pieces of old carpeting, quilts or blankets were gathered for use in covering the scalding barrel to help keep the water hot.

Sticking Hogs An Art

Fires were kindled about daybreak. Hogs had been placed in some small but nearby pen. Helpers brought their dead but efficient looking butcher knives, each carefully sharpened. A whetstone was kept handy by a rifle was made ready for use. "Gambie Sticks" were prepared, at least one for each hog to be killed. In the event no meat cleaver was available, and it usually was not, a sharp axe served the purpose.

If no rifle were at hand to shoot the hog, it was simply "knocked in the head" with the poll of the axe or even with a hand hammer. In either event, the unconscious hog was quickly turned on its back and stuck. Sticking hogs was considered almost an art.

The one performing this function plunged his long knife into the center of the hog's throat near the shoulders, pointing it somewhat backward and perhaps giving the tip of the blade a deft flip to insure the cutting of a main blood vessel. To secure and retain a reputation as a skilled sticker it was necessary to remove a clean knife from the wound. Blood on the hands or blade was held to indicate a bungling job.

With the hog dead, it was placed, head first, into the barrel of very hot water where it was churned up and down and turned from side to side by men holding its back feet and perhaps its tail.

After a few plunges and turns, one of the men would grasp a handful of hair on the portion being scalded as it was raised from the hot water. When this hair slipped easily the ends of the hog were reversed and scalding completed. When this had been done the hog was withdrawn to the platform for scraping and the barrel was covered to help keep the water hot for the next hog to be scalded. Scraping now began.

Second string butcher knives, specially shaped scrapers and even the workman's hands were used to rub, scrape or pluck the hair away. If some spots, like wrinkles, folds or spots otherwise protected from full effects of the scalding failed to yield the hair, pieces of old blankets or pads of hair already removed were placed over the spot and scalding water was poured on. When plucking showed that the obstinate hair had been loosened, the spot was scraped.

The proper temperature for the water in the scalding barrel was determined by rapidly sweeping the fingers through it. If more than three such sweeps could be endured, it was too cold and more boiling water was added. Some practiced sprinkling powdered resin over the hog before scalding, insisting that it helped to loosen the hair made the skin firmer and left the carcass whiter. The whole idea was to entirely remove the hair and not to shave it off. A workman that cut and gashed the skin while scraping a hog was rated as unskilled.

After scraping, it was time to hang the hog. This was done by making vertical slits in the back of the lower hind legs and raising the tendons sufficiently to allow the pointed ends of the gambrel to be inserted. The actual hanging of the hog required very strenuous and precise efforts, since it must be hung high enough to keep its nose a foot or so above the ground.

Hogs were usually suspended from a strong pole, one end of which was chained to a tree or placed in a crotch of proper height, the other being supported by a fork made of crossed rails or small poles. Once hanging in place, the hog was splashed with water and gently brushed to remove any clinging dirt or hair.

Cutting Up of Carcass

After at least partial cooling the carcass was laid upon a sturdy clean table or perhaps on the scrubbed scalding platform cut up. The head was removed and snout and end of lower jaws chopped off. The head was then ready for processing.

The ribs were next removed, the hams, sides and shoulders cut apart and properly trimmed. After the meat had been allowed to thoroughly cool but not to freeze, it was ready for "salting down."

By this time twilight was near. The neighbors who had "volunteered" their help went home generally well laden with ribs, backbones and livers. In a few days they also would kill hogs and this neighbor would "volunteer" his help and incidentally get some real fresh meat to take home.

Assorted parts of the hog remained to be worked the next day. The sweet bread, the kidneys and a few other portions were thrown away. The lights or lungs were left hanging where the chickens could pick them. The feet were cleaned for cooking, sometimes they were pickled. The brains were kept and fried with eggs. The intestines were often cleaned and used for sausage casings or perhaps they became chitterlings.

When all this had been done the task of making sausage and rendering lard remained. Obviously, a little of the hog was wasted, and "a good time was had by all."

All Women Will Cherish Gift Sweaters

Be she six, 16 or 60, the Average American Female has become aware of a fact that Christmas would not be Christmas if she didn't receive at least one sweater. But the annual repetition distresses her not a bit. No matter how many sweaters she has, she always can use another. For no outer clothing garment adapts so well to her overall wardrobe, teaming with skirts, shorts and dresses for dozens of new combinations.

The sweater shopper 'in '34 will have an extensive choice. In the women's sportswear field, for instance, one side of the scale of fashion offers classic slip-on and pullover garments in yarns of the finest gauges. Off at the other extreme are the popular bulky knits. And making news at the midpoint are several novelty items, featuring bead and embroidery work and finer collar detail.

Fabrics range from butter-soft Orlon and nylon-Vicara to cashmere, lamb's wool and zephyr wool. Stripes have come into prominence, as have big "artist" collars, nautical themes and border treatments of soft angora.

According to stylist Ruth Roberts, many ladies' sweaters exactly match those worn by men, but are sized down for better fit. There also are short-waisted barrel jackets, in white, navy, red or brown, and full-length, bulky-knit coats. These go along with the trend for reviving the old-time "Tilden sweater" look.

ATTENTION VOTERS

This is not a statement intended to defeat our educational systems. However we feel that you, the voters, should take a careful look before voting to raise your taxes. We wonder if maybe a better job of assessment would do the job. Equalization of assessments is something that we of the farming class have long been seeking. So let's consider this issue of a 21c raise per hundred dollars assessed value carefully before Saturday, December 4. Each person affected should get out to vote on this issue.

Vote on Sewer District Dec. 14 At Carrier Mills

Voters of Carrier Mills will go to the polls Tuesday, Dec. 14, to cast their ballot regarding the establishment of a sanitary district.

"The only issue to be voted on is that of establishing a sanitary district and not a bond issue or the installation of sewers as many seem to believe," Freeman O'Keefe, mayor of Carrier Mills stated today.

He continued that many were of the opinion that the coming election would determine if a sewer system would be installed, but that is not the case.

"If the sanitary district is approved an election will probably be held sometime later on the sewer system question and a bond issue, but that definitely is in the future," Mr. O'Keefe stressed.

He explained that if the sanitary district is approved it will make it possible for three trustees to be appointed to study the sewer system possibilities and to delve into the question thoroughly. However, the trustees, who would be appointed by the Saline County Judge, following recommendations by members of the Carrier Mills Village Board, cannot be appointed until a sanitary district is approved by the voters.

The sanitary district boundaries would be the same as the present boundaries of the village of Carrier Mills.

First step in securing the sanitary district was made Saturday, Nov. 6, when a commission of three judges approved a petition as to the boundaries of the proposed Carrier Mills Sanitary district. Judges who formed the commission were Circuit Judge Harold Zimmerman of Marion, Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds of Vienna and Saline County Judge Ralph W. Choiser.

The petition contained 126 names and there were no objections to the petition when it was presented to the commission. Atty. Arlie O. Boswell and Atty. Harry McCabe

Fringe Benefits Important Factor

CHICAGO (AP)—Fringe benefits have become an important factor in the recruiting of workers for both government and private enterprise, according to the Civil Service Assembly.

The assembly said American workers regard fringe benefits as an important condition of employment.

The term applies to a wide variety of rights, privileges and special activities which employees consider along with salary as attractive features of a job.

The Civil Service Assembly, in a special report on the subject, predicted that pressure for increased fringe benefits will continue as long as individual security needs are not completely satisfied.

It said that as soon as nationwide programs are established which provide adequately for the security needs of employees, present fringe benefits will become obsolete or new benefits will be devised.

The report said the disparity between fringe benefits offered to employees by government and industry is not as great as commonly believed.

The assembly said the gap is narrowing between vacation policies of government and industry.

For years, the assembly said, the vacation policy in most governmental jurisdictions has been regarded as more liberal than in industry. But recently the federal vacation period has been decreased, while the vacation allowances of many private firms have become more liberal.

Coupled with the pleasure of receiving Christmas cards is the pleasure we can enjoy from a decorative display of the colorful greetings. To allow cards to pile up in a helter-skelter stack on the hall table or to scatter them around the house robs us of half the fun of renewing old acquaintances via the cheerful holiday messages.

But the time to figure HOW you'll incorporate the cards into a festive scene is before the postman overloads the mail box and you're rushed with other holiday activities.

How simple or how fancy your card decorating will be depends on your time and inclination. Some cards are ready-made for decorative use. A case in point is the cheerful holiday choo-choo which carries greetings and is designed to hold cards received. The merry little train lends itself to an easy setting on mantel or desk sparked by the addition of a few sprigs of greenery and some shining Christmas balls. With growing children compiling a respectable card collection of their own, I will use a train or similar card holder to corral their personal greetings attractively and neatly.

Another case in point is offered by the new, large fold-out cards. One depicts the Manger at Bethlehem, and another a lovely Gothic window which has 24 panels, each opening to reveal a Christmas message for one of the 24 days of Advent. These reverent scenes should, I think, be set apart, perhaps on a table or bookcase, marked by the simplest framing with candles.

Turning for ideas for the decorative use of the traditional-size cards to Mrs. Jeannette Lee, art director for a large greeting-card company, I picked up several suggestions.

Use cards, says Mrs. Lee, to lend color and originality to wreaths, festoons and arrangements of greenery in many locations in the house. A rope of greenery, for example, framing an open arch or doorway can be dotted with color by hanging cards on wire or string as they arrive. Or loop a greenery rope up the banister of an open stairway to serve as a novel background for cards.

Look for lively backgrounds for arrangements in windows, alcoves or wall panels, says Mrs. Lee. One idea she likes is to cut varying lengths of two-inch-wide ribbon and attach cards at intervals. Ribbons can then be suspended to frame a window or a mantel. An inside door, such as an apartment door, can be used to greet holiday guests with a variation of this idea: Place a wreath in the middle of the door, flanked by cards on ribbons.

I wish I owned a handsome screen, for many reasons. Not the least of these is that it makes such a perfect setting for a Christmas-card collection. If you do own one, you might like to try Mrs. Lee's suggestion to intersperse cards with small sprigs of holly or ribbon bows to break up the block-like paving of cards.

Let ice cubes lick your Christmas cards. Place a few in a dish and wipe the adhesive flap on them.

True spirit of Christmas is portrayed in the new, large fold-out greeting cards. The Holy Family, Wise Men and shepherds are depicted in the Manger scene, foreground. In background is a 24-panel card, each panel of which opens to reveal a message for one of the 24 days of Advent.

Fashion Made Easy For Mere Males

NEW YORK (AP)—Men who don't know a gusset from a guimpe should meet a sympathetic girl who just compiled a small guide book for fashion conversations.

She defines basic terms such as "bouffant," which can throw a struggling male when he tries to understand a woman's shopping report, and she includes fashion terms like "gigot sleeve" which stump most women.

The author is a young woman known only as Robbie, fashion coordinator for the Lanella Corp.

Robbie thought at first that the fashion "dictionary" would appeal to sales clerks in stores, who might like to rattle off a few accurate explanations of a dress to impress a customer.

Such as:

"These bellows pockets are the latest thing, and note the graceful godets and the removable plastron."

Now the first printing of 10,000 copies is gone and Robbie is happily ordering more while she confounds her friends with her descriptions of clothes.

In case there are some mysteries still unsolved, here are the answers:

Guimpe: A separate blouse worn under a low-necked dress or under another open-neck blouse.

Gusset: A triangular insert in a garment or side of shoe.

Gigot sleeve: Sleeve shaped like a leg of mutton—full, loose above the elbow and fitted below.

Bellows pocket: A patch pocket with a box pleat in center.

Godet: A triangular gore set in at bottom of the skirt.

Plastron: A decorative collar worn bib fashion.

This year, Santa Claus will visit more than two million people who live in house trailers all across the nation.

A Message to the Citizens of Harrisburg Township High School District No. 101 from Your Board of Education

Our building fund rate is adequate for maintenance but the present educational fund limit of 50 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation does not provide sufficient funds for the minimum essentials of operation.

This present limit yields barely enough to pay teachers' salaries even though the report of the School Problems Commission shows that our last year's salaries averaged $520.03 less per teacher than the average for the state.

All extra-curricular activities such as athletics, Purple Clarion, Year Book, etc., are completely self-supporting and do not receive any money from tax funds.

Our rate is one of the lowest in effect as indicated by the 1954 rates reported by the following districts in our area:

HARRISBURG	50	Carbondale Comm.	78	Salem	54
Eldorado	69	Murphysboro	75	Flora	68
Equality	96	Cartersville	75	Fairfield	55
Carrier Mills	61	Herrin	1.00	Bridgeport	75
Shawneetown	96	Frankfort	80	Lawrenceville	75
Rosiclare	65	Benton	65	Thompsonville	60
Golconda	54	Elkville	95	Galatia	62
Vienna	75	Pinckneyville	68	Du Quoin	72
Metropolis	75	Mt. Vernon	74	Valier	1.00
Anna	75	Centralia	62	Zeigler	1.00
				Christopher	75

Unless prices continue to rise a rate increase of only 5c to 10c on the $100 assessed valuation will probably be sufficient for necessary expenses and the proposed limit of 71c would never be necessary, but it is unreasonable to assume that we can continue to operate our school on a lower rate than that required by any other district, so we recommend that you go to the polls on Saturday and vote YES on the proposal.

McCarthy Censure is Not Based on Communism Fight

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As the Senate reconvenes to decide whether or not to wash out Junior Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's mouth with soap, anything can happen—and it probably will.

The alternatives include a vote of condemnation, a vote of commendation, a compromise, a filibuster to prevent a vote, postponement of decision till next year, letting the whole business die a natural death, or even the filing of new charges of censure for compounding offenses and making a bad issue worse.

The United States Senate—which prides itself on being the most deliberative and the most deliberative body in the world—has got itself in some Grade A messes before. But none of them seems to approach the depths of the current situation.

In the first two weeks of so-called debate on the original censure resolution, before the recess, the real issue at stake seems to have been completely lost in a fog of deliberate confusion.

SENATOR MCCARTHY HIMSELF and his more rabid followers have all tried to build up the idea that he was being tried and persecuted because he fought communism.

The question before the U. S. Senate has nothing to do with either communism or anticommunism. It is a simple matter of whether or not McCarthy has been contemptuous of his colleagues in a situation where they believed they were entitled to more courtesy. And whether this same senator has been a gentleman in the treatment of one witness before his committee—namely, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, whom no one has accused of being a Communist.

All the petitions in the world and all the name-calling cannot alter or obscure this simple fact. MEMBERS OF THE House of Representatives refer to each other on the floor as the "Gentleman" from New Hampshire, the "Gentleman" from New Mexico and so on. In the upper chamber, however, the members refer to each other as "senator."

If there is any implication in this that the senators are not supposed to be gentlemen, it is false. On the contrary, most people expect that the senators should be even more courtly in manner and more gentlemanly than the representatives.

It is well known that when a certain type of man cannot win an argument on logic, he resorts to calling his opponent nasty names.

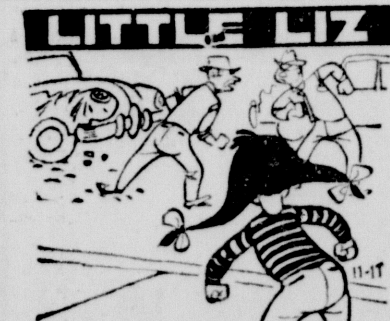

No purpose would be served in repeating here the purely personal abuse that McCarthy has heaped on the heads of his fellow senators when their opinions did not coincide with his own. These insults are all too well known already.

A PAINED OBSERVER of the hassle points out one thing:

It is the mark of a gentleman that, once he has cooled down after a burst of temper, he is not ashamed to step forward to say with humility and sincerity, "I apologize."

It has been suggested that those

VA Has New 'Magic Eye' for Documents

MILWAUKEE — The Veterans Administration has come up with a "magic eye" to replace the old "eagle eye" in inspection of documents for irregularities.

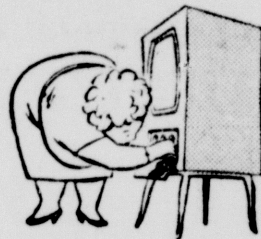

The VA said the new electronic eye could easily spot scratch-outs, obliterations, erasures and the like in documents relating to VA-administered benefits for veterans and their families.

Previously the VA depended on eye detection or a costly and time-consuming process of infra-red photography, often with inconclusive results. The VA said that the new "eye" can immediately spot any irregularities whether in ink, pencil or typing.

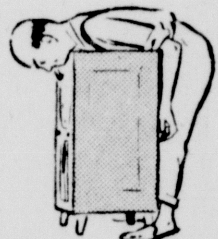

Under the device, which looks like a television camera, tampered portions of papers stand out in strong contrast. If a signature has been changed, the original signature will stand out clearly.

The device, according to the VA, was adapted from the infra-red "magic eye" used on world War II sniper rifles with built-in telescopes.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Hollywood on TV: It's a sad season for the TV prophecy boys. The morticians who buried "I Love Lucy" because it just couldn't stay up there so long are as red-faced as the scoffers who sneered at "My Little Margie."

Lucy's still a national habit, and Margie, in its 104th episode, topped Arthur Godfrey out of Wednesday's top TV shows last month.

More and more shows and stars have switched, or are contemplating, Hollywood television while the live spectaculars turned out to be floptaculars.

Increased good will between movies and TV caught the prophecy kids off base, too. Almost every film star is available for TV today. Movie production has been cut in half but profits are bigger because TV forced Hollywood to junk quantity for quality.

Television, as a matter of fact, now provides 46 per cent of the total working time for the 8000 members of the Hollywood Screen Actors Guild.

Jack Benny can do no wrong as far as I'm concerned, but TV viewers are complaining to me about his smug "isn't this funny" smiles direct to the camera in the midst of his laugh plots.

They say they don't mind Jack playing to the camera in his opening monolog, but that his lens-peering between plot lines is irritating and unnecessary.

"Never look at the camera" is rule No. 1 in the ABC's of movie emoling.

Maybe it should apply to TV laugh-getting, too.

Hollywood hears that Sid Caesar's show is just about washed up. With Imogene Coca's ratings in trouble, too, their reteaming next season after this year's split-up seems likely. If pride isn't the stumbling block, of course.

Gene Raymond's signed for a new panel series, "What Goes On?"

Telefilm makers like Lucy and Jack Webb may argue with Diana on that point, but she has another reason—not being able to see herself on the screen. Says Diana:

"There's no preview or premiere to worry about when you do live TV. You can keep your illusions. You can imagine you were very good and very attractive."

Rules set down by the Treasury Department for the TV series, "Treasure Men in Action":

"Agents must never be hammy, flip, pompous or extra-heroic. T-Men must always be human. Scripts must avoid civil cases which are usually dull. Never try an unsolved case on TV. Keep in mind the laws that govern invasion of privacy. Avoid cases that are 'sexy'."

Another movie doll, Diana Lynn, says she prefers live to filmed TV. Her reasoning: "A big live TV show is a classy thing. In Hollywood a telefilm is treated like a Z movie."

Sudden thought: Can't "Waterfront" be called a dockumentary?

Vincent Price will quizmaster a new series, "Key Witness."

Mrs. Rosemary Rettig, mother of kid star Tommy Rettig, didn't bat an eyelash when someone told her, "You know, that dog Lassie is stealing many of the pictures in the 'Lassie' TV series from your son."

"Tommy" replied Mrs. Rettig, "I'm planning to buy an apartment house with the money he's getting from the pictures Lassie is stealing from him."

Van Heflin blasted TV series as bad for stars the other day but Dan Duryea is happily saying he's never had it so good in movies since his China Smith episodes hit the home screens.

Says Dan: "I've just finished my seventh movie this year. A lot of producers who would never buy me as anything but a killer saw me in their living rooms as a pretty sympathetic character in the series."

John Sherwood told Leo Guild he wrote a horse race story for TV. Running time is 28:30 and two fifths.

Joanne Woodward, a TV actress, landed a big Fox contract on the strength of a video kinescope clip. Fox big gears looked at the small-screen footage and signed her without even suggesting a film test.

CHANNEL CHATTER: Engineers figure a spot four feet away from your 21-inch TV set gives you a bigger screen (by eye mathematics) than a seat in the center of New York's big Music Hall Theater.

The romance or what passed for one may be over, but Joanne Rio wants permission to talk about Liberace in the night-club act she's preparing. She's awaiting the okay from his managers.

Lucille Norman, who hasn't made a movie since her stardom at Warner Brothers, will try her flicker luck again.

For the Ladies, Pick Pretty Things to Wear

Clothing Gift Fits Budget Of Any Size

The route to the heart of a man may detour around through his stomach, but the path to the heart of his lady is always in open view. On Christmas Day and every day, she's sure to fall every time for lovely — and practical — things to wear.

The woman who can't be thrilled by glamorous gifts of clothing probably doesn't exist. And now, more than ever before, the thrill is easier to give—for there's glamor to fit every budget.

Handsome, luxurious garments, such as petticoats, nightgowns, pignoirs, pajamas, blouses and skirts, range the scale of prices from five-figure numbers to one or two dollars. What once only queens and nobles could afford now is available to all.

If the lady on your list likes dress-up occasions, she'll appreciate a glamorous blouse. This year's new formal blouse styles feature dozens of opulent fabrics.

Avisco rayon mat jersey, the popular fabric which has long been a favorite in sophisticated separates costumes, is one of the newer fashion leaders. With its stark simplicity and richness of and softly elegant gowns offering two extremes. One has old-fashioned comfort, while the other appeals to every woman's sense of femininity.

While gowns are favored for grownups, cute styles like short bloomer pajamas are right for teen-agers. A newly popular adult style is the "waltz-length" gown in printed challis, with matching pignoir ensemble.

The list of other favorites — sweaters, stoles, hats, suits, stockings, raincoats, weskits and so forth—is too long to well describe, and long enough to fit any gift-giving problem. But before you choose, a word of advice:

In buying women's clothing, stay away from the type of item that requires a definite measurement, unless you know the measurement exactly. If you don't and can't find out, many stores have gift certificates which enable the lady to choose for herself, after you've paid for the item.

In the field of accessory items, the list is headed, as usual, by the always-needed handbag. The currently popular tote bag style can be found in all types of leather, from cowhide to suede to kid, and in all popular colors.

The choice of belts is equally wide. You'll see them in the new softened calf leather, so supple that it is draped, pleated and shirred for the cummerbund look. The wrapped look is also developed in smooth leather belts that give the effect of a wide midriff with a curved shaping.

The idea that a gift of gloves is practical but unimaginative doesn't hold true this Christmas. A myriad of colors and textures from the finest doeskins and glaze kid leathers to pigskins and cape-skins are available in gloves for every occasion. And the styling is true high-fashion.

In the at-home glamor shoe department, there are many novelties to choose from in sandals, wedgies and mules, some of them jeweled and embroidered. Most are brilliant in color.

SWISS-embroidered collar is really a hanky, modified by this gal. Neat way to spark up sweater or last year's dress.

PEGNOIR ensemble and gown of rosegay print is smart sleepwear two-piece. This outfit is rayon challis.

YOUNG ladies go for fashion. This cotton pique has full, gathered skirt, needs no starching to stay crisp.

Auto Accessories Offer Fertile Field in Buying

Suggestion to fill large-sized stockings: one brand new shiny 1955 car.

But if the stocking isn't large enough — or the bank account, either—then you can wow them all with an auto accessory gift. It's the kind of thing the motorist would never buy for himself.

Take a walk through a large housewares or auto accessories store.

You'll see things like a Car Snac which holds two thermos bottles and an insulated compartment for food and straps onto the car seat.

There's also a Visorette—a clip for the visor which holds spare spectacles, note pad, pencil, maps and other non-valuables to keep the glove compartment uncrowded.

In apparel there are Gluy-Moos, soft leather slippers in their own carrying bag for comfort on long drives. There is, too, a child's auto seat with steering wheel.

For the "pilot," there is a two-in-one compass and map measurer.

And for the smoker there is a magnetized cigaret case that won't slip off the dashboard while he reaches for a smoke. And don't forget things like driving gloves, visored caps, key chains.

But if you'd rather not shop around for an auto accessory, simply go back to the first plan and give a new car.

For a unique gift to the members of the family who spend some time in Florida, give a subscription to the hometown paper for the duration of their visit. Nothing could be more appreciated.

Metallic Yarns Dramatize With Help Textile Field Exciting Outdoor Decor

NEW YORK — Metallic yarns are flashing rays of optimism nowadays in the nation's recession-ridden textile industry.

The yarn with a glitter turns up in women's blouses, table linens, draperies, men's ties and even golf bags.

"The metallic yarn business has started from a standing start in 1947, when output was only 11,000 pounds, to a new record of about 1,000,000 pounds this year," said Arthur C. Brucks, a pioneer in the field. He is president of Metlon Corp., a leading producer.

Brucks thinks that the metallic yarn business is just starting to roll, with new uses popping up constantly. Metlon, for instance, will turn out yarn for the upholstery fabrics of 1955 model autos.

Aids Industry
Available in 16 colors (ranging from "cornflower blue" to "Arctic green"), the Metlon product is made by "sandwiching" transparent plastic film to both sides of super-thin aluminum foil. The most popular width is 1-64th of an inch.

The pliable thread does not tarnish and it may be combined with both natural and synthetic yarns.

Metlon is used in church vestments, as well as in rugs and suspenders. As a defense item, it goes into tow targets for anti-aircraft guns.

"Before World War II," Brucks notes, "metallic yarn used in this country was chiefly an import from France of plated copper wire."

"During the war there were restrictions on using aluminum, so it is only in the past eight years that the metallic yarn field has enjoyed a chance to grow."

He points out that use of metallic yarn enhances the beauty of other textiles, thereby tending to aid the entire industry. Studies show that Americans now use only 32 pounds of cotton, wool and man-made fibers annually on a per capita basis. This compares with 36 pounds last year and a record of almost 42 pounds in 1941.

Owners of freezers can make full use of them preparing for the holidays. They allow the preparatory work to be spread out over a longer period of time. Almost everything, even bread, can be picked up ahead of time and tossed into the freezer to stay in perfect condition until needed.

Christmas Suggestions-- To Make Shopping Easy

Oh, Christmas comes but once a year and when it comes there's always somebody who forgot to make a list.

It turns out that in real life you have to decide what you're going to give to friends and family. Here are a couple of ideas, broken down into categories.

Gifts For a Little Boy

1. Spaceman's helmet.
2. Turtle-neck sweater.
3. Model kit.
4. Denim jeans and jacket.
5. Basketball, heavy-duty.
6. First deposit in his own savings account.
7. "Tom Sawyer" or "Huckleberry Finn."
8. Box for storing toys.
9. Wool Mackinaw.

Gifts For a Little Girl

1. Children's handbag.
2. Ice or roller skates.
3. Two-wheeler bike.
4. Snow suit.
5. Doll carriage.
6. Junior-size carpet sweeper.
7. Inexpensive, fancy bracelet.
8. Bag for school.
9. Small brush and comb set.
10. Little girl's hat.

Gifts For a Teen-Age Boy

1. Typewriter and/or desk.
2. Tickets to sporting events.
3. Wallet, inscribed with his name.
4. Pocket knife with nail file, cork screw, etc.
5. Slipover sport shirt.
6. Dancing lessons (hallroom).
7. Pen and pencil set.
8. Set of brushes, for bath, clothes, etc.
9. A good pair of slacks.
10. Monogrammed belt.

Gifts For a Teen-Age Girl

1. Foolproof camera set.
2. Identification bracelet.
3. Plastic raincoat and umbrella.
4. Phonograph and/or records.
5. Manicure set.
6. Portable radio.

7. Oil painting set with numbered canvas.
8. Money for a photograph sitting.
9. Matched luggage.
10. Terry cloth bath slippers.

Gifts For the Beau

1. Monogrammed sport shirt.
2. Your framed, autographed photo.
3. Electric shaver.
4. Initialed tie case.
5. Weskit.
6. Men's toiletries.
7. Wrist watch.

SIDE GLANCES

"This'll please you, Dad! You know how you always told us to make friends? Well, we've each got a list of fifty to buy Christmas presents for!"

TOPS in reality comes with "Love Me" doll. Hair can be washed, set, skin won't chip or peel. She shuts her eyes.

Yule Shopping Season Opens In Local Stores

Wide Selection
Of Merchandise;
Urge Early Buying

The Christmas shopping season—always a colorful time of the year—opened officially in Harrisburg, southeastern Illinois' outstanding trading center, this week, and busy shoppers were setting about their tasks in earnest.

Although Santa himself will not put in his annual appearance, complete with treat for the kiddies, until later in the month, everything else gave evidence that Christmas was near at hand. The Harrisburg Jaycees annually sponsor Santa's visit to the community.

Workmen have been busily engaged in stringing colored Christmas lights and ornaments throughout the business district. And stores have assumed a holiday appearance with their window decoration and heavily-laden counters, racks and shelves bearing gift suggestions.

In view of the noticeable stepped-up activity which prevailed in the downtown area Saturday and Monday, one local merchant described it as indicative of a busy Yuletide season. He also expressed the feeling that the early trading was not temporary but would continue throughout the next three weeks right up to Christmas Eve.

A member of the Harrisburg Merchants Association said that local stores have one of the most complete and selective stocks of Christmas merchandise ever offered in this section of the state. "It would appear," he added, "that each year we try to outdo ourselves in bringing the best in quality, price and varied stocks before our fine friends of this community. We are, of course, happy to be able to do this."

Harrisburg's Jaycees will stage a gigantic Pancake Day in the city Saturday, Dec. 4. Their headquarters for the edible flying saucers will be in the Cummins Building, across from the Post Office.

Shoppers will have an opportunity to eat all they can hold—pancake and coffee-wise—for 50 cents. Tickets will be on sale at the door and by members prior to Saturday. The doors will open at 5:30 a. m. and close when the batter runs out, a member of the organization has announced.

Shoppers are urged to make Harrisburg their Christmas shopping headquarters and commence early. Enjoy Christmas more this year by shopping early.

Fill Dad's Sock With Toiletries

It used to be that only the kids hung their stockings with care at the mantel. But you can brighten friend husband's Christmas morning with stocking gifts, too.

Except, of course, that you don't fill it with toys. Instead you fill it with the little accessories and notions that he needs but leaves to you to buy anyway.

It's easy to figure this gift out. Simply look at his toiletries shelf and you'll see that he needs toothpaste, razor blades, a new toothbrush, dental floss, styptic pencil or foot powder.

How about his shoe laces? You can buy them in huge quantities for little money and you can pick the shades you yourself.

Check his pocket comb and his bathroom comb and brush. Check his eyeglass case—he's probably lost the original one. How's his supply of shoe polish? His clothes

There are Right and Wrong Toys, Age of Child is Biggest Factor

The toys that American children receive, use, lose, break and wear out in a year ring up $800 million in the cash registers of toy stores and counters all over the country. That national debt-like figure is not a mistake, it's the word of Melvin Freud, president of the Toy Guidance Council, which helps parents buy play equipment just right for their youngsters.

Most of this business comes about because Christmas is a children's time and most people feel Christmas is just a bother unless they can shop for some kid—any kid.

But even the Toy Guidance Council has no idea how many of these dollars go for toys that are for youngsters the wrong age, the wrong interests and the wrong environment. It's something they don't like to think about, since they spend their time trying to get a toy and moppet together happily.

But hang around the toy department and you'll see it happen: The man with the three-month-old baby buys a dump truck or a stuffed animal with a shoe-button eye that will appeal to the child as a prospective edible; an auntie will buy a darling doll for a child who is squirming valiantly to get to the hammer toys, granny will pick out an expensive movie projector for a child who craves a wagon.

But the right combination is a joy to see: Junior gravitates to the package most likely to be his holster set, opens it and the parents need no thanks. He's off to the imaginary pampas of the kitchen to pick up his horse, stabled in the broom-closet.

The manufacturers who stuff the Christmas pack with toys have brought out a top-notch selection this year, with an eye firmly on the do-it-yourself trend. Children are the original home builders of furniture mountains, houses under the desk, horsies out of brooms; so it is natural that toy makers are bringing out more and more toys that give kids a chance to do rather than look.

A toy tool set by Skil-Craft, a kitchen set by American Metals Specialties, a kit of scale model locomotives by Northwestern Products, the Doepke Company's model sports car, Kenner Products' "Play a Story With Dolly," Plastic Block City's blocks with many building possibilities, Model-Craft's sculpture and paint set and Hassenfeld Brothers' Mr. and Mrs. Potato Head are samples of toys children will develop their imaginations and hand skills on.

Also in this category are Bachmann Brothers' Plasticville U. S. A., Gaston Manufacturing's Doodle Face, Revell's Navy Gift Set ship-building kit, Milton Bradley's Eat-O-Mats, Walco Bead's Pearl Jewelry Craft Set and Walter Herne's junior home decorator's set.

While children's imaginations provide them a rich world, with the help of a few adaptable toys, every youngster goes through a stage of finding out how things work. He wants tugboats that go, trucks that dump, ladders that extend, trains that puff and cars he can ride. But owning several of these toys will bring a poverty of the imagination rather than providing additional fun. Give him the one he's crazy for—and it's probably the one everyone in the neighborhood has. If relatives send many more such toys, put them brush? Does he have a suitable nail file or emery board supply? These are the gifts that will make the old man sit up and say to himself: "Boy! Is my family thoughtful!"

away against the day his favorite breaks or for the next child.

Among the mechanical toys you have to pick from are sound, well-constructed items, such as Product Miniature's scale model International Diesel called TurnTrac, Vintage Product's Zimcom signal box and U-Drive-It, a toy that teaches safe driving.

Others that may be just what your child craves are Kamkap's Supermarket, Doepke's fire engines, Structo Manufacturing's Road Grader, Aluminum Model Toy's Remote Control Pontiac, Bassons Industries bicycle-drive sports car and the Castelli Motor Bike.

Games that invite the whole family's participation make good gifts. On the market this winter are two small-sized shuffleboard games, Carthage Mills O'Shuffl and Dimco Gray's Indoor Shuffleboard. Board games available include Milton Bradley's Pathfinder and Swayze. Miniatures that are new are Northwestern Product's Poosh-M-Up ice hockey and Gotham Pressed Steel's table model pool table. A new card-word game, Bali, is good for a solitary game or for families up to four persons.

Dolls and doll equipment satisfy the little girl's early motherly impulses. On your toy counters will be Horsman's "Love Me" doll, Playtime Product's Pink Pram, Holle's Diane the Dancing Doll, and Belle's Gingham Girl Doll.

With their popularity on television, puppets and marionettes are welcome toys. Among those available are Zany Toy's hand puppets and Hazelle's Teto the Clown.

For the very youngest's Christmas, there is Plastray's suction cup dinner plate, Mem's soap figures, Gaston's Walt Disney wood block story book and Holle's washable plastic animals.

He Says Our Shoppers Are Merely Statistics

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Walter P. Margulies straightened his blue serge battle jacket, sighted along his polished fingernails and fired the salvo:

"That little woman—the American shopper—is a statistic," he said. "A number. A fact. We know exactly what she's like."

Walter P. Margulies should know. He employs a staff of 100 who are actively engaged in making "that little statistic" buy one brand—whether a car, tobacco, cereal, bus ticket or soup—instead of another.

They're successful, too. Last year industrial designers Lippincott and Margulies made well over a million dollars. They'll do even better this year, even if the American shopper doesn't like to consider herself a calculated statistic.

Margulies is not an advertising man. He does not write commercials or knock on doors. He does not give away free mountain-peaks-or-your-money-back.

He simply designs the containers and shells by which shoppers select the items they are going to buy. He does it all very scientifically. He uses all the colors in the rainbow. He uses the planes of perspective. He uses psychology. He also uses statistics.

He has discovered about the American shopper that:

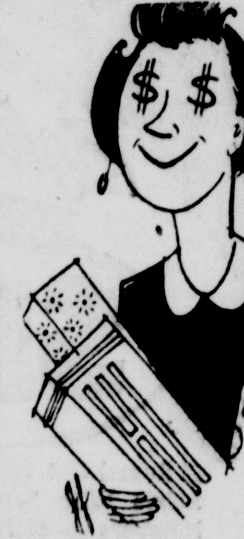

1. If she wears eyeglasses at home it's an even chance that she doesn't have them on when she goes to the store.

2. She doesn't really like supermarkets. She wants to get in and out as quickly as possible.

3. She has an active vocabulary of about 9000 words. And she likes to read the funny papers.

Without too much trouble, these facts are translatable into profit-making sledgehammers which Lippincott and Margulies bang on the heads of manufacturers and their vice-presidents in charge of advertising.

1. If the housewife isn't wearing eyeglasses when she shops, she can't buy what she can't see. The package, therefore, has to dominate the shelf.

that are clear, simple and memorable, he must also stay within the bounds of believability.

"You could," he said, "easily sell milk from a gas pump. But nobody would buy it. They'd be sure they could taste gas."

How heavily do shoppers depend on signals for buying?

Margulies conducted a survey to find out. Blindfolded tasters were given glasses of beer—a taste of each of the leading brands. Only one out of many could distinguish among the light, heavy, thin, dry or wet beers.

Yet, when they saw the labeled bottles they knew the difference.

"It turned out that a small piece of glued paper 12 inches square made a big difference," he said.

In addition to designing containers, Lippincott and Margulies have styled other products inside and out. Among them, automobiles. But would Americans have autos in the near future that were smaller, more compact with the same motors and interior room?

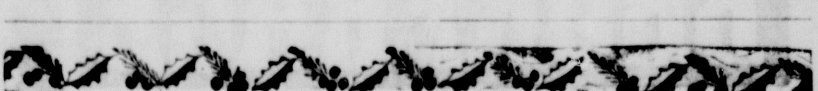

"Never," Margulies said. "Never. Because it is the little woman who buys cars in America. When she looks at new cars, she sees only the body style, the dashboard and the upholstery—in that order. How can you fight city hall when the mayor is a woman?"

Junior Asks for Same Toys Dad Used to Get

NEW YORK —Atomic age or no atomic age, Junior is asking this Christmas for basically the same toys his dad used to get from Santa.

That means cowboy suits... bikes... wagons... the ever-popular electric train.

Toy manufacturers, who are chalking up their first billion-dollar year with record Christmas sales, report that space suits and other "science fiction" toys have a certain drawing power but the tastes of American boys are a little old-fashioned, if not downright reactionary.

"It may surprise people to know that steam locomotives outsell Diesels four to one in electric trains," said C. E. Hjelle of Louis Marx & Co., the world's largest toymaker. "Freight cars move faster—sell faster, that is—than streamlined passenger cars. The kids want a train to haul something, like a real train does."

Child psychologists and educators agree that today's boy—like his father—is more interested in "play value" and "participation" in his toys than in timeliness. The A. C. Gilbert Co. learned this the hard way three years ago.

Gilbert came out with a so-called atomic bomb kit, complete with Geiger counter and radioactive "uranium particles." The boys turned up their noses. It was too far-fetched, and besides, it wouldn't blow up anything.

So Gilbert went back to concentrating on such sure-fire items as trains that haul tiny milk cans.

Clothing Gift Will Delight Any Woman

The route to the heart of a lady is always in open view. On Christmas Day and every day, she's sure to fall every time for lovely—and practical—things to wear.

The woman who can't be thrilled by glamorous gifts of clothing probably doesn't exist. And now, more than ever before the thrill is easier to give—for there's glamor to fit every budget.

Handsome, luxurious garments, such as petticoats, nightgowns, negligees, pajamas, blouses and skirts, range the scale of prices from five-figure numbers to one or two dollars. What once only queens and nobles could afford now is available to all.

If the lady on your list likes dress-up occasions, she'll appreciate a glamorous blouse. This year's new formal blouse styles feature dozens of fabrics. Color ranges are extensive.

Another gift favorite is sleepwear, with cozy, pretty pajamas and softly elegant gowns. While gowns are favored for grownups, cute styles like short bloomer pajamas are right for teen-agers.

The list of other favorites — sweaters, stoles, hats, suits, stockings, raincoats, weskits and so forth — is too long to well describe.

In the field of accessory items, such things as handbags, belts, gloves, jewelry, and a wide range of novelties in the at-home glamor shoe department steal the show.

Yes, for the lady in mind you can't go wrong with a purchase of clothing.
